Walker Zanger's new Bera & Beren tile recreates carved limestone aesthetic
Collection includes coordinated wall and floor tiles, offering a complete design solution

LOS ANGELES — Walker Zanger, the world's most comprehensive stone and tile company, recreates the look and feel of carved limestone through its new Bera & Beren collection of porcelain floor and ceramic wall tiles. With wallcovering and flooring options, designers are able to perfectly coordinate a wide range of natural stone colors for a contemporary aesthetic in both residential and commercial applications.

"Bera & Beren channels the look and feel of sophisticated Portuguese and Spanish limestone, yet with the durability and affordability of porcelain and ceramic," said Jared Becker, Walker Zanger Vice President of Design and Marketing. "This collection allows you to create these luxurious floor to ceiling wall patterns that look just like beautiful carved stone, including its weathered finish and tactile ridges."

The tile's grains and fossil spots feature subtle variations between mattes and glosses to mimic real Catalan limestone with a minimalist and refined character. The textured wallcovering design "Saw" features an engraving effect of horizontal lines, while "Six" forms a patterned network of clean, modern hexagons.

The larger format floor tile are 18-inches by 36-inches or 12-inches by 24-inches, and offered in both natural and bush hammered finishes (the latter only available in select colorways). The bush hammered finish is inherently nonslip so it can be used poolside, but is also useful for projects where the flooring needs to transition from indoors to outdoors while maintaining a continuous aesthetic.

Bera & Beren tiles are available in an array of complementary neutral colors, including Biscuit, Coal, Greige, Light Grey, Dark Grey and White.
